

Rationale:

The primary mission of the St. Paul University-Manila PhD in Nursing Education is to establish excellence in nursing education, particularly in the field of nursing educational leadership and management. The doctoral program prepares nurses to contribute to developing leadership in nursing education, the scholarship of teaching, and education based-research in the discipline. Education at the doctoral level builds upon and extends content acquired at the baccalaureate and masters' levels to emphasize theory development, learning strategies and research skills. The program is committed to increase the number of doctoral prepared nurse educators and nurse managers. The Paulinian doctors will qualify to fill nursing managerial positions in educational institutions and health care agencies.
